

To All Community Leaders:

The stigma of looming foreclosure can truly demoralize a family. Think about it. The home you've been raising your family in for years is now in jeopardy. Your investment, likely bigger than any other you've made, and which you've relied on as a safety net for your retirement, threatens to evaporate. You and your loved ones may never recover from such a blow.

Studies show the biggest issue standing between families forfeiting their homes and saving them is fear. That's where you come in. As a trusted leader in your community, congregation or workplace, you're in a unique position to bring this issue out in the open. By providing a few timely messages, you can make the difference between families keeping or losing their homes.

In baseball, a relief pitcher is called in when things aren't going well for the team. The outcome of the game hangs in the balance. Immediate help is crucial, or all may be lost.

Today, we ask that you take the mound and join the ranks of Relief Pitchers across the region who can and do make a genuine difference in preventing home foreclosures. You can help save the day for families who don't know where to turn. You can offer hope to those who have none.

Won't you please join us now as we try to strike out foreclosures, one pitch at a time?

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Sandra Johnson".

Sandra Johnson
Executive Director
Delaware State
Housing Authority

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "John C. Carney, Jr.".

John C. Carney, Jr.
Lieutenant Governor
State of Delaware

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "John R. Price".

John R. Price
President & CEO
FHLBank Pittsburgh